DICTATOR IS READY TO QUIT

Rumor Has it that Huerta Will Re- sign if Assured Safe Conduct Out of Country

Vera Cruz, May 4.—Persistent rumors continued to circulate here that General Huerta intends to retire from the provisional presidency of Mexico on condition that he is assured of safe conduct to a port and placed on board a foreign ship.

It is declared in some Mexican circles in this city that General Huerta was ready to resign a week ago but was prevented from doing so by internal dissensions in his cabinet.

The disappearance from the Mexican cabinet of Jose Lopez Rojas, the foreign minister, coupled with reports that there was a growing undercurrent of feeling in Mexico City against the Huerta government is interpreted here as foreshadowing a change in the situation in the Federal capital.

Some of the closest observers here of the government's situation express an inclination to the view that General Huerta's resignation may clear the way eventually for the appointment of a foreign minister, who under the Mexican constitution could succeed General Huerta as president.

In these circles it is pointed out that while Venustiano Carranza declined to treat with General Huerta he might consent to enter into negotiations with his successor and thus facilitate mediation.

All Eyes on Tampico

The effect of the continued rebel successes in the north and the outcome of the pending attack on Tampico, may, according to a well-informed opinion bring about a rapid change in Mexico City.

While the Federal capital was reported quiet today, people who arrived here from the seat of government declared that the populace there was beginning to learn that General Huerta had been deceiving the people all the time by issuing false reports of Federal successes over the Constitutionists.

G. A. R. HONOR THEIR DEAD

Impressive Memorial Services Held For Those Who Have Died the Past Year

On Sunday afternoon the annual memorial services of Storers Post No. 1, and Women's Relief Corps were held in Odd Fellows Hall and were largely attended. The hall was tastefully decorated with flags, ferns and flowers, a bouquet of white pinks adorning the altar. Nine chairs draped in white and black mutedly told the number of members who had passed away during the year, seven from the Post and two from the Relief Corps.

The Relief Corps held their services first, the tribute being given by a past officer of the Corps. The quartette of the North Congregational church under the direction of Mr. Arthur Doolittle rendered appropriate selections.

At the close of these exercises the chairs were vacated for the officers of the G. A. R. who held their impressive services. Rev. John L. Davis of the People's church delivered the memorial address.

Miss May Warren, a daughter of a member of the Women's Relief Corps gave a recitation. The wreath, the gift of the scholars of the public schools was presented by Miss Martha McCourcy of the Haven school

MEXICANS PLAN TO ATTACK VERA CRUZ

FUNERAL SHIP SAILS FOR HOME

Cruiser Montana Receives Sol- emn Honors From United States Fleet.

Vera Cruz, May 4.—The bodies of 17 American bluejackets and marines who fell victims to the Mexican soldiers in the street fighting during the operations accompanying the occupation of Vera Cruz by the United States fleet, started on their way to New York yesterday on board the armored cruiser Montana. Solemn honors were paid by the great assemblage of U. S. war vessels as the Montana passed slowly out of the harbor and these were joined by the vessels of the British, French and Spanish navies which represent their countries in Mexican waters.

The crews of the warships in turn uniform lined the sides of the warships and as the Montana reached each one the men stood at attention, the marine guard presented arms and the ships' bands played funeral marches.

One by one the colors of the fighting craft, sunk to half mast as the Montana steamed through a lane formed by two divisions of the Atlantic fleet. As she reached the end of the parallel lines the Montana gradually decreased her speed and when she turned toward the north the flags of all the ships fluttered to the top once more and the crews broke ranks.

On shore during the Montana's passage out the stars and stripes flying over Brig. General Funston's headquarters were lowered to half mast, and was only raised again when she had disappeared on the horizon.

The hospital ship Solace with about 100 sick and wounded American bluejackets and marines on board, it was stated tonight might sail northward later this week, but nothing definite has been decided in this connection. The men under treatment on board are doing well.

Aeroplane Squadron Discover that Army of 10,000 is Being Made Ready for Advance on American Positions.--Huerta, Carranza and United States Will Send Delegates to Peace Conference

Washington, May 4.—A hurried conference of the chiefs of the war department was called late last night by Secretary Garrison to confer on a report from General Funston at Vera Cruz to the effect that the aeroplane squadron had discovered that plans were being made by the Federals to mass an army of 10,000 troops under General Muna for an advance on the American position.

It is evident from the dispatch that General Funston is fearful of general attack and is chafing under the orders not to fire the first shot.

This despatch made it plain that no confidence is expressed in the agreement of Huerta to maintain an armistice.

General Funston's report said that the Federal attack upon the waterworks was led by Major Zamora, who is a responsible officer, and that his action was without question dictated by General Muna.

The despatch from General Funston said that the Federals had 4000 men in Soledad, 5000 at Japala and about 1500 at Palmar, as well as a number of small scattered forces, all within a striking distance of Vera Cruz. It was reported that the Federals were engaged in throwing up defenses at Palmar.

The total American forces in Vera Cruz number about 7000.

Mexican officers in civilian clothes have got through the lines at Vera Cruz it is believed, for the purpose of making observations on the American strength and the positions of our armed forces. While these officers would be promptly shot as spies under the rules of war, General Funston adding under orders to do nothing which would reduce a doubt as to the friendship of the United States for Mexico has been obliged to content himself with notifying the Mexican officers to leave the city.

Much of the information contained in the despatches of General Funston was withheld by the censor, but it became known that he had asked for authority to visit promptly retaliation on the Mexican troops, should the attack be renewed; also that the Federal authorities for his operations for some distance in the general direction of Mexico City if it became necessary.

PROMOTION AND RETIREMENT

Captain Rogers as Rear Admiral Floats His Flag Just a Half Day

Captain Charles Curtis Rogers, former commandant of the Portsmouth navy yard was advanced to the rank of rear admiral and placed on the retired list of the navy on Saturday afternoon. His promotion and retirement was made in a short space of time and his flag as rear admiral floated from the administration building less than four hours. A salute of thirteen guns was fired when his colors went to the masthead which was the first and last official recognition of his rank he ever received in the service.

His retirement will date from April 27, in conformity with the provisions of section 1463, Revised Statutes (physical disability in the line of duty), and with the rank of rear admiral, in conformity with the provisions of an act of congress approved March 4, 1911, detached at duty.

He has been at the government hospital, Washington, for the past three months for treatment following a previous examination for promotion.

He is a native of Virginia and was appointed from the state of Tennessee June 5, 1872. Since he took command of the yard and station here he has won the respect of every official and workman at the reservation, and as a navy official took a keen interest in the affairs of Portsmouth as well as those of the government. He worked early and late for the development of the navy yard and the welfare of the enlisted men especially.

The employees of the yard and his many acquaintances in this city wish him much happiness in the remainder of his days in civil life.

GEORGE B. FRENCH CO.

DARTMOUTH STUDENTS GOOD FIRE FIGHTERS

Plant of the Hanover Press Is Badly Damaged by Fire.

Hanover, May 4.—The most spectacular conflagration since the destruction of S. Fayweather hall, broke out here yesterday morning in the Dartmouth Press and residence of Frank A. Musgrave, state auditor of New Hampshire. Only the fortunate lack of wind and an exhibition of fire-fighting by the Hanover department supplemented by the Dartmouth College fire squad kept the loss down to $25,000.

The fire was first seen by Officer Murphy at 4:30 o'clock who rang in the alarm but the presence of disaster was made known to the entire town just before the fire alarm by a tremendous explosion which hurled Mrs. Stewart, Hon. Frank A. Musgrave's mother-in-law, nearly 70 years of age out of bed, besides rocking every building in the neighborhood. The explosion followed by the shrieking steam of the Dartmouth heating plant, gave many a townsman and student a startling Sunday morning awakening.

More or less mystery is attached to the cause of the fire. Late developments point to a Dartmouth student, who is said to have visited just before the outbreak the offices of the Dartmouth quarters.

Dartmouth College paper which had quarters in the same building. The authorities, however, reported this morning the cause to be a gas tank which until the other day was run to earth will be the one generally accepted.

By some freak of luck the linotype machine of the Dartmouth press escaped injury, which means a saving of $7500. There is still hope that many of the printing machines will also be found unscathed though they are now in a foot of water.

It had been planned to move the whole structure within a few months in order to make way for a new and modern office building. It is now probable that former Speaker Musgrave will start immediately on the project.

Heavy Loss of Personal Effects
The Musgrave family besides losing its home and business, lost many trinkets and valuables. The loss of a beautiful, heavy mahogany parlor set, presented to Mr. Musgrave by the legislature of the state of New Hampshire, of which he was speaker in 1911, will be impossible to replace.

All of the private papers and files of the Musgrave were rescued by the student squad, aided by volunteer students. Most of the personal effects of Mrs. Stewart were a total loss. Mr. Musgrave who had gone on a fishing trip to Bristol with Hal Brown of Hanover was sent for but did not arrive till the fire had done the damage. Immediately upon his arrival he started to make arrangements for putting out tomorrow's Dartmouth, as usual, and has already temporarily leased quarters in Lebanon, five miles away.

The whole town is a mutual admiration society tonight with the townsfolk being congratulated on their fire department by the students and the students by the townspeople. A number of heroes have been made in a day. Dr. Lamson, M. A. the former Exeter student got in the hero list when he carried a line of hose into the burning building through an upper window, thereby effectually saving one whole corner of the structure. Moose Emphorn, the All-American tackle of 1912 took up the hero role saving from the fire a number of crates located in the press room.

The loss will be partly covered by insurance, the amount being determined by the loss of machinery which is insured for $10,000.

TOOK "KIM" FROM REAL LIFE

Original of Famous Character Kipling Wrote of Traced by an Editor of India.

What a pity that Kipling does not describe more scenes that he has witnessed! He could have described scenes of Indian life that continually passed under his notice. He might have entered the massive palaces of pompous rajahs and the humble homes of two poverty-stricken peasants and told us in his wonderful language what he saw there. Instead he has spoken indifferently of what he heard. Kipling had such wonderful opportunities!

For instance, take the story of Kim. The character of Kim has been treated in a similar way to that of Hamlet. According to Mr. Lord, the editor of a Darjeeling newspaper, the Pall Mall, Kim is no other than Tim Doolan, Jr. Shortly after the so-called Indian mutiny of 1857 a company of British soldiers were garrisoned on the dreary, sunless heights of Semeshall, a peak of the Himalayas, not far from Darjeeling. There the sun shines on an average of three days a year, and there a romantic Irish sergeant fell in love with a beautiful Tibetan girl.

The sergeant's name was Tim Doolan. He eloped with the Tibetan beauty and crossed the border to live with her people on the borderland. Nothing more was heard of Sergeant Doolan for another 20 years, when his son, Tim Doolan, Jr., was arrested in the market place of Darjeeling for murder. Young Doolan was very fair in complexion, with blue Irish eyes and red hair, although he spoke only Tibetan. The British authorities looked him over suspiciously and wondered at the Irish type and Irish name. Later, papers belonging to Tim Doolan, the sergeant, establishing the origin and identity of the son, were found on the accused who, like Kim, valued the papers as a charm. The sergeant's rifle and side-arms were also found afterward in Doolan's hut. The half-caste son was executed for murder. The story is well known all over India, and from such frail material Kipling created Kim.

But Kipling is not an authority on India, or other things Indian. He is only a writer of the life of foreigners in India—not of Indian life.—A. R. Sarath-Roy, in North American Review.

Prospecting on Private Estates.

The question of inducing prospecting upon privately owned estates is also one of prime importance. The laws of many countries, holding that mining is an industry of prime importance, prohibit public, give to the would-be prospector the statutory right under certain conditions and limitations to prospect beneath the surface of private property. The owner is protected in various ways, and shares in any profits which may accrue from such development work, but he is not able to prevent it. He must either submit the ground himself or permit the applicant to do so; he cannot put the bars on a 10,000-acre ranch and say to the world "There are mines here, but I forbid anyone to exploit them, neither shall I work them myself." Large tracts of promising mining land are thus withheld from exploitation in this country today, and rich ores are waiting the arrival of the Columbus who shall disclose their existence to the world. The laws of the future must some time make provision for the exploration of all such lands, and it is not too soon to give the subject serious consideration.—Engineering Magazine.

First Impressions.

Ex-Senator Clarke had just bought at the Agopian sale in New York a wonderful Isphahan rug for $21,000. To a reporter who declared that he saw nothing remarkable in the faded antique rug and carpets spread about him, Mr. Clarke said:

"You are not yet familiar with this subject. It is so with porcelains, with fables, with enamels—one's opinions and criticisms at first are rather absurd."

"It is like the young woman's first view of the sea. She was servant, and had never seen the sea before, and her mistress, nodding toward the great, wind-swept expanse of ocean with its gulls and flying clouds and distant sails, said:

"There, Mary, is the sea. What do you think of it?"

"Oh, mum, she cried, 'it smells just like oysters.'"

Bogus Bomb.

What appeared to be a suffragette bomb was recently discovered on a stand at the International Cinematograph exhibition at Glasgow.

Attracted by a persistent ticking, an exhibitor went to the stand and discovered there a small square parcel, on which was written "Votes for Women."

He dropped the packet into a pail of water, but when it was afterwards opened it proved to be nothing more than the inside of a cheap clock and pieces of paper, on which were written various suffragette cries.

HIS TALE OF TROUBLE

YOUNG MAN LOUD IN DEMAND OF NEEDED CHANGES.

Hard as It Is Sometimes to Get into a Flat, He Found It Very Much Harder to Get Out of It.

"I think," said this young man, with great emphasis on the personal pronoun, "that there ought to be on the inner side of the exit door of every flat, just as there is required by law to be on every exit door from a theater, a conspicuous sign plainly lettered 'Exit.' I'll tell you why.

"Last night I called on a young lady of my acquaintance who lives in a flat and I passed a very pleasant evening. But when I tried to go away I got into trouble. The parlor in this flat is at the front end of a hall that, I should think, speaking moderately, was 60 feet long. On one side of this long hall there is a solid wall, but on the other side there are numerous doors, opening, I suppose, into sleeping rooms. There is one such door directly opposite the door by which you enter this flat from the outer hall. It was by confusing that last bedroom door with the exit door which it faces that I got lost.

"There was a time when folks used to escort their guests to the door and say good-by or good-night to them there, but it seems that the present style is to say good-night in the parlor and let the guest find his way out, and that's what happened to me last night.

"When I struck the parlor end of that long hall I thought I could find my way all right. There was the long hall, with the wall on one side and that string of doors on the other, all just as it was when I came in, and it looked easy. But when I got down to the far end of it I'm blessed if I could remember which side of it I came in at, and instead of taking the door to my right, as I should have done, I opened the left hand door, and—

"Hey, there! What's 'blin' you? Get out of here! I heard somebody saying.

"Of course it was the young lady's kid brother. He had been in the parlor a little while earlier in the evening and then disappeared, and I knew now that he must have gone to bed and that I had broken into his room trying to find my way out.

"All right youngster," I says to him as gently as I could, but I shut his door as quickly as possible and made for the door opposite and got into the hall and pressed the elevator button for an emergency call—and I didn't come to fully until I had got out of the house into the open air.

"There ought to be a plainly lettered 'Exit' sign on the inner side of every flat house exit door."

Bruno Was Vindicated.

A lady leading a Scotch terrier by a silver chain entered a street car, east-bound, the other afternoon. The dog crawled under the seat and went to sleep. Presently a stout man carrying a market basket took the vacant place beside her. In a few blocks the woman began to get nervous. "Stop it, Bruno!" she cried in a shrill whisper. She had no dog permit and the situation was delicate.

Presently she turned pale and, jerking the chain, cried: "Lie down Bruno and behave yourself!" A moment later she jumped up and began to do a solo dance. The fat man beside her stared at her in astonishment. Then an idea struck him, and he stooped over and looked at his basket. Recovering himself with a great effort, he said:

"Madam, when you are through with my lobster will you kindly return it to me?"

It took smelling dogs to bring the lady to herself. But Bruno was vindicated.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Gardening Secret.

Said Herbert Adams, the sculptor, whose statue of Bryant everyone knows, just as all Washington is admiring his recently unveiled memorial fountain there:

"When I first planted my garden, I thought I liked some flowers better than others; but, after you've worked among flowers awhile, no matter what kind of flowers they are, you like them. I've noticed that certain flowers grow better for some people than for others. There's William Howard Hart—anything will grow for him! When I asked him the secret of his success, he just held up his grumbling fork.

"It's the secret the old woman had," he told me, 'only she used a kitchen fork. Poking around the things. It is the care and affection you give them!'"—Suburban Life.

Historic Discovery.

Mr. W. T. Oldrieve, chief architect of the government office of works in Edinburgh, has announced that he has discovered remains in Edinburgh castle of the ancient fortress known as King David's Tower, and also the well which supplied the castle and garrison with water. Excavations revealed much of King David's Tower still standing, its walls eight feet thick, and rising to a height of nearly fifty feet above the original rock surface.

THE BOSTON & MAINE TO GIVE MEN ANSWER TODAY

Boston, May 3.—Tomorrow, it has been agreed, the officials of the Boston and Maine Railroad will give a definite answer to the committee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen and Enginemen regarding the demands of the men.

The joint committee of the men of both brotherhoods will call upon General Manager Pollock and the general superintendent at 10 tomorrow morning for the decision on the matter.

Yesterday, from 10 in the morning until 3 in the afternoon, the men's committee were in continuous session with the officials of the road. No minor matters were touched upon, the discussion being confined exclusively to the so-called principal grievances of the men and largely to the one regarding the men's claim that the road has grossly violated the hours and runs portions of the agreements.

Neither side seemed to care last night to express any views as to whether or not yesterday's five-hour talk gave a more favorable outlook toward the matter being pleasantly adjusted tomorrow.

That the men's committee had informed the officials of the road that they would not dicker over the terms and that there could be no compromise regarding the question of hours and runs, was admitted by their representatives.

The road must either agree and its officers sign the agreement to put into effect time cards which the men ask, or the members of both organizations on each division of the big system will be at once directed to vote on whether or not they will strike to enforce observance, is the exact situation today, it was explained by members of the committee.

It was also stated that the grand officers of both the engineers and firemen and enginemen's organizations have sent word that they will be in Boston this week.

After yesterday's conference with the officials of the road, the men's committee had a session at 164 Canal street. Many of the members of the committee go home for Sunday, it was said, and each will today inform the membership in his home vicinity of the situation as it stands.

SAVING BULL RUN

It is good news that an army board has reported favorably upon the proposal to make the Bull Run battlefield a national park. It is to be hoped that congress will see its way clear to act in accordance with the recommendation. The field of Bull Run has a two fold interest. It was the scene of the first pitched battle of the war; and a year later, it saw one of the hardest fought and from the student's point of view one of the most interesting battles of the civil contest.

Some one has said of the first Bull Run that it was the best planned and the poorest fought battle in which the federal armies participated. The opposite might almost be said of the second battle, which was the concluding chapter of Pope's unhappy summer campaign in Virginia. It was fought without plans and without system, but it was desperately fought. The vicious charges of the federal brigade against Jackson's men in the railroad cut and the stubborn defense against Longstreet's enveloping ones in the woods about the Henry house, are among the finest achievements of the war. The Union forces had far more reasons to run from the second Manassas than they did from the first, but they did not run and thereby they saved the grand eloquent general who had come out of the west to show eastern armies how victories were won from even greater humiliation than was his portion.

Whatever may be said of war in itself, its teachings are all for patriotism. The cost of preserving such battlefields as that of Bull Run is infinitesimal in comparison to the inspiration to be drawn from them. The visitor to the places where the history of the country has been made should be able to visualize the scenes which have been enacted there, and this he cannot do if the physical aspect has been altered out of likeness to its original plan. We have Gettysburg and Chancellorsville; now let us have Bull Run—and then others.

LATEST FOR THIRTY YEARS

The spring of 1914 promises to go down as a record backward season, and the farmers here are willing to agree to that. Mr. Charles H. Hayes, the veteran farmer and an authority on such matters states that it is the most backward season for thirty years. Mr. Hayes does not trust alone to his remarkable memory in this statement, but by his planting records, kept every year.

The first real activity shown by the farmers in this section was on Friday and Saturday of this week, and considerable planting was done. All of the early garden stuff is very much behind, for instance, from an asparagus bed, which a year ago April 20, was cut twenty bunches, not a sign of the grubs has been seen this year. Pears are out of the ground, but ordinarily at this time have been bared once or twice. Farmers who have high ground have been planting corn and in some cases potatoes, but on low land it will be weeks yet before it can be worked, and from the amount of water on some fields it looks as though late June planting would be in vogue. It is an old saying that nature is a good judge, and this seems true this year, as none of the fruit trees are showing signs of life as yet.

NOT HER SORT

After he had fallen upon his knees and kissed her hand she said:

"Before I answer 'Yes' or 'No' there are some things I would like to ask you. Do you ever drink or gamble?" "No," he eagerly replied. "I do not know what the taste of liquor is; I have never defiled my lips with tobacco. I have never after a profane word in my life. I have never even played bridge where a prize was at stake."

She looked at him thoughtfully for a moment, drew a long sigh and then asked:

"Have you ever broken a woman's heart?"

"Ah, how can you ask me that?" he almost reproachfully answered.

"If I had ever spoken word of love to another I would not deem myself worthy to touch the hem of your garment. I have never cared for anyone but you. I have never kissed any woman except my mother. I have never given any girl cause to utter one sorrowful sigh. Yours is the first soft, dear little hand that I have ever held in my own. Never before tonight have I looked in any girl's eyes as I am looking into your deep, soulful ones. Never."

"Oh dear!" she impatiently interrupted, drawing her hand away from him. "It's after 8 o'clock and you shouldn't be so far away from home at this time of night. Wait a minute please, and I'll see if I can't get my brother Tom to go with you. You're mamma must be terribly worried!"—London Tit-Bits.

31,000 MILES OF PRECISE LEVELS

Washington, D. C., May 3.—The latest publication of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, Department of Commerce (Special Publication No. 18, The Fourth General Adjustment of the Precise Level Net in the United States), which may be obtained for the asking by engineers, surveyors, and others, contains the elevations of thousands of definite points, called bench marks, scattered over the surface of the country. These bench marks have been established by various engineering organizations of the Government, but mostly by the Coast and Geodetic Survey. The points at which the elevations are given are described in this and previous by issued reports.

The elevations are the vertical distances above the mean level of the sea. Thus if the elevation of a brass tablet cemented into the face of a railroad station is given as 1,000 feet, the point in question would be that height above the sea. If it were possible to dig a sea level canal from the ocean to that station it would be found that the tablet would be within a few inches of 1,000 feet above the surface of the water in the canal.

While the surface of the ocean rises and falls and produces the phenomenon known as tides, yet its mean position is determined by long series of tidal observations remains fixed, and the precise leveling shows that the mean sea level is the same, or practically so at all points on the open coast. The lines of levels are so interlocked in a net that the elevation of any point in the interior of the country or near the coast may be considered as fixed for hundreds or even thousands of years.

The elevations published in this report are called "standard" and will not be changed, as other level lines are added to the net. These elevations will be used by engineers and surveyors throughout the country for controlling their work in cities, along railroads, and canals, in irrigation and drainage projects, and in various other operations.

Many more miles of precise leveling must be done, and it is planned by the Coast and Geodetic Survey that eventually every place in the United States will be within a reasonably short distance of a precise level bench.

REMOVABLE PAVEMENTS

Pavement piling for petty repairs by public utility is an universally practiced in our larger cities that the public has become bored to the spectacle of seeing the paving materials on the sidewalk or piled up in the gutter.

The Engineering Record suggests that engineers look into the feasibility of a removable type of pavement which can be piled up in large basins extending from the curb to the car track and laid to one side while the driver after conduit troubles pursues his task.

Inquiries in Chicago and talks with practical pavement men indicate that the idea has merits and presents few, if any insurmountable difficulties. Rough calculations indicate that concrete blocks of ten inch thickness, reinforced might cost upward of $2.50 per square yard, exclusive of hauling to place. They could be transported at night over the street railway tracks and unloaded by a crane directly into previously prepared longitudinal reinforced foundation walls at curb and car tracks.

Blocks would seem to be specially suited for the part of the street that the railway companies are required to pave as in most cases foundations for the blocks already exist. The almost inevitable necessity of removing the pavement prior to its removal should make the removable, reversible and interchangeable features worthy of detailed study by street railway engineers.

IN FUEL YARD CASE

Bill Filed in Behalf of Several Portland Citizens—May Go to United States Supreme Court.

Portland, Me., May 3.—A bill in equity has been filed by Ellen Whitthrop Freeman in behalf of several citizens to restrain the city of Portland from establishing a Municipal fuel yard in accordance with the vote of the people at the polls, and it is expected that the case will go to the United States Supreme Court.

It is claimed the Constitutional rights of taxpayers are involved because money paid for taxes is used for other than Municipal purposes. The Constitutionality of the bill has been once affirmed by the Supreme Court of Maine.

TO TAKE PLACE OF PARCEL POST STAMP

Postmaster centers have received notification that the postoffice department proposes to issue five new denominations of postage stamps intended for use on parcels more particularly, but valid on all classes of mail. The new denominations are the seven-cent black, nine-cent pink, 12-cent maroon, 20-cent light blue and 30-cent vermilion.

The seven-stamp will bear a head of Washington in profile from Houston's bust and the other stamps will carry a picture of Franklin in profile also from Houston's bust.

Postmasters have been enjoined by late orders to see that all parcels presented for insurance or for collection of delivery are stamped as to the nature of their contents.

DOCTORS IN RUSSIA

Russian doctors must envy their colleagues in England, the increased incomes brought them by the insurance act. Dr. Ralph Thompson says that in Russia nobody ever acts as a physician (the amount of his bill, says the London Chronicle,

"It is universally admitted that a gentleman pays his doctor a fair sized such a sum as he can afford to pay within the limits of his income and his sense of generosity. The Russian cannot understand how a man engaged in the holy pursuit of saving life and alleviating suffering can put a price on his services."

After this it is not surprising to learn from the same authority that Russia is the only European country of importance where the medical profession is not overcrowded.

AUTO ACCIDENT AT ROCHESTER

Rochester, N. ## The Grand Army.

There is a touch of pathos in the action taken by E. K. Wilcox Post, G. A. R., of Springfield, Mass., which was incorporated some years ago, and which has decided to "broaden the scope" of its membership by electing ten new members from the camp of the Sons of Veterans. The old veterans are going, and they take this means to perpetuate their organization, so far as possible, a step which is justified by the fact that the Post has acquired a substantial realty holding.

But, in the broad sense, the Grand Army of the Republic is an organization that cannot be perpetuated. In this respect it differs from any other organization in the world. It is composed of men who were honorably discharged from the service of the government in the Civil war, and there are none to take their places. Even the Sons of Veterans cannot do this. They may become members of a corporation representing those who have gone before, but they can never, in the true sense, be members of the Grand Army of the Republic. Eligibility to that noble order was won many years ago in the fire and smoke of battle and the other hardships that attend real war.

As another Memorial Day approaches thoughts like these must come home to every reflecting mind. It was a great privilege for the members of the Grand Army to do what they did when the life of the nation hung in the balance, but it was a privilege fraught with suffering and dangers as great as were ever faced in human history. Those who came back from that awful war organized themselves in the Grand Army of the Republic, an organization whose glory is imperishable, though its last member will soon be gone.

And it is a privilege for all of us who for any reason did not take an active part in the Civil war to have lived contemporaneously with the Grand Army of the Republic, whose members have unfailingly held aloft and exemplified the highest ideals of patriotism at all times and under all circumstances. They realize as none of the rest of us can the awful cost of the free government under which we live, and the people owe them a debt of gratitude which can never be fully paid.

These facts may well be borne in mind on the coming Memorial Day. Let all remember that the thinning and halting line of veterans will soon be gone forever, and let no one fail to do what he can to smooth the pathway of those who are marching to the Great Beyond by honoring them and their fallen comrades in the customary manner when comes the greatest day of the year to the Grand Army of the Republic.

Francis Bowes Sayre, son-in-law of President Wilson, who is acting as assistant to President Garfield of Williams College, is about to travel across the continent to the Pacific coast, addressing Williams alumni on the importance of raising as speedily as possible an endowment of $2,000,000 for the institution. And it is to be presumed that his itinerary will be fruitful. But what would Col. Ephraim Williams say of the need of a $2,000,000 endowment after all that has been done for the "school" that he founded?

Vincent Astor of New York, reputed to be the richest young man in the world, has been married, and he and his wife should be able to "scrub along" if it is true, as reported, that when he and his fiancée visited a Christmas dealer last winter the latter succeeded in beating the price down from 75 to 50 cents.

Buenos Aires has a subway system, and is the first South American city to be thus equipped. This denotes civilization, and why should not South America have something to say regarding the adjustment of the difficulties between Uncle Sam and his nearest neighbor to the south?

The A. B. C. and E. F. G. powers have interested themselves in the affairs of the United States and Mexico, which are at present somewhat mixed. Perhaps before the end there will be an opening for "D."

Cleveland, O., is already sick of the provision of its new charter which places city laborers in the classified service. In weeding out old evils great care is necessary to prevent the introduction of new ones.

The late George F. Baer was a man who accomplished large things, but he will probably be remembered longer for what he said he never said than for anything he ever did.

This is "clean-up" week in many towns. All that needs to be said is that if you are going to do it, do it well.

"Strawberries and fish are cheaper," says a bold, black headline. The rich and poor should feel easier.

It is true that we are making history, but who knows how it will read?

CHARGE FRAUD IN ELECTIONS

Four Officers Are Arrested
As Result of Whitman Probe.

New York, May 3.—Four election officers were arrested today on indictments for alleged frauds in connection with the special election on April 7, at which the voters of New York state decided to hold a constitutional convention next year.

District Attorney Whitman announced that he would carry his investigation of alleged election frauds into every district within his jurisdiction. Evidence he said, pointed to a conspiracy to stuff the ballot boxes in favor of the constitutional convention proposition.

Three of the men under arrest are Republicans and one a Democrat. They are Daniel W. Bresnahan, George Wisen and Joseph Koch, all election inspectors and Louis Bohl, a poll clerk. The election inspectors are indicted for a felony, punishable by three years in prison or a $3000 fine or both. The specific charge is that they allowed one Eugene Beard to vote illegally. Bohl is charged with aiding and abetting another person in illegally voting. The evidence showed according to the district attorney's statement, that certain election inspectors in charge of the polling places in that district voted from ten to twenty times.

REORGANIZED.
Boston & Maine Relief Association Now on a Much Firmer Basis.

The B. & M. Relief association, an insurance organization composed of railroad employees, has been reorganized and is now being conducted on a much firmer business basis than heretofore. In the past it has been run on the assessment plan and for some time the members have been becoming dissatisfied with the results. Arrangements have now been completed so that the members will pay regular premiums for life insurance and also for health and accident benefits. The association will be re-insured by the Travelers Insurance company of Hartford, Conn., and the present proposition is one of the best that employees can get. The officials of the association are all employees of the railroad and represent all departments and also all branches of the system.

The time for departure came all too quickly for the merry party, who all wished little Miss Eleanor many happy returns of the day.

Moisture is drawn up from the soil, and filtered through the pores of the plant.

CURRENT OPINION

Experience With Employees
Shows That They Work
Best When Contented.

The time has come when the head of a business must acknowledge the importance of psychology in relation to success and must utilize it to that end. Our experience with employees has been that they work best when contented. A man who is always looking for a new job isn't going to pay any too close attention to the one he has. A fellow with a family to care for and a constitution that isn't too robust is constantly looking up from his ledger to catch the fleeting faces of the specter of possible disability staring at him through the bars of the cake. And he knows that disability means that the rent isn't going to be paid and that the children will be hungry. The more he thinks of these things the more they get on his nerves; the more often he looks up from his ledger to see if the specter is still there. And his work suffers.

WE WERE FAMILIAR WITH THESE TWO TYPES OF MEN THROUGH EXPERIENCE. AND WE WERE FAMILIAR WITH ANOTHER TYPE. THIS WAS THE FELLOW WHO CAME TO WORK AND WHOM WE SPENT MONTHS OF TIME TEACHING THE INTRICATE DETAILS OF A CERTAIN POSITION. WHEN HE HAD LEARNED THEM AND WE HAD BEGUN TO BREATHE EASIER HE SUDDENLY ANNOUNCED THAT HE WAS GOING TO QUIT, AND WE FACED AGAIN THE LONG GRIND OF BREAKING IN A NEW MAN.

All these elements we figured in our quest for a solution, and when we got hold of that solution we tested it pretty thoroughly to see if it lived up to the proof. We knew that the best way of keeping a man contented was to give him something to look forward to. The pension system did this. It let every man in our employ know that if he stuck to his work and made good his old age and that of his family would be provided for.—By R. G. Hutchins, Vice President National Bank of Commerce, New York City.

COMPLIMENTARY LETTER

Navy Yard.

The following complimentary letter from the Secretary of the Navy to the commandant of the navy yard has been received and copies of the same were distributed today to the several departments.

Navy Department,
Washington, D. C., April 20, 1914.
The Commandant,
Navy Yard, Portsmouth, N. H.

Sir:—The Department appreciates the excellent work performed at the yard under your command during the unusual circumstances of the past fortnight and congratulates you and the officers and employees of the yard upon the success attending their efforts.

The Department wishes you to convey to all officers and employees its gratifying at the excellent showing made under trying conditions. The Department is particularly pleased at the willingness exhibited to work over time. This is patriotism in the concrete form and is truly characteristic of American workmen. It is the display of this particular kind of patriotic spirit that enables the Department to rest assured that in time of real danger the country's safety, which may depend upon their work will not suffer at the hands of the officers and employees at its navy yards.

This was the only accident to mar the trip. The party arrived back at 9 o'clock and weather permitting will take a run to Rochester next Sunday. It is expected that about 20 will participate.

The American jackies and marines resorted to valor and ingenious methods in capturing Vera Cruz. For instance, when they drove the Mexicans out of the custom house they used trunks, as shown in the illustration, as a barricade to stop bullets. In the center of the photo will be seen a jackie from the U. S. S. Prairie using a machine gun.

Always Dust in Atmosphere.

We owe the blue of the sky to the fine dust in the atmosphere's heights, where the air is purest. When the wind blows the dust in motion the blue turns to gray. The smoke of a cigar is blue as it issues from the mouth of the smoker in whitish gray because the particles of the gray smoke have increased in volume by fixing water vapor.

NAVAL APPROPRIATION BILL BEING PRUNED—BOSTON GETS BUILDING WAYS

Washington, May 3.—In spite of the fact that the House of Representatives has passed the naval appropriation bill, the House has rejected the amendment which provided that at least $250,000 should be used for the manufacture of high explosive torpedoes for 12 and 11-inch guns. Only 53 members of the House were present and voting at the time, the ayes being 13 and the nays 40. Although the amendment was lost in the lower chamber, there is a possibility that it will be restored in the Senate, which will in the meantime have the opportunity to inform itself as to the relative merits of the armor-plating shell and the torpedo shell. It is probable that an amendment appropriating for torpedo shells regardless of type will be offered later.

Mr. Hobson's criticism is important because Mr. Hobson is the chairman of the special sub-committee which has been conducting under battle conditions in which came to the conclusion that the armor-plating shell is useless at the range of 10,000 and 12,000 yards, as it broke up on the face of the armor or in going through the armor and was therefore, as Mr. Hobson put it, "ineffective." This conclusion was arrived at as the result of experiments conducted under battle conditions in which the armor-plating shell was used against modern plates of steel and iron in thickness, substantially thinner than the plates on modern dreadnoughts. The guns used were the 40-caliber guns on the Talla-hassee. In making his report to the House, Mr. Hobson stated:

"I may say that in the attack on the target with armor-plating shell not a single shell penetrated in a way to explode behind the armor, not a single shell penetrated the armor intact without breaking up, and this was true with respect to either the 8 or 10-inch armor at even the shortest range. This test established the fact that it would have been impossible for these shells to send a fragment through the protective deck or in the vicinity of any first-class ship at that range. I do not hesitate to state that if a dreadnought had been there in place of the target it would not have been put out of action. I will go further than that, it would not have been as far as its vitals are concerned, even seriously injured."

We fired some 89-odd shots and made 26 hits. I believe we could have continued to fire until we made 100 hits without sinking an actual ship anchored there and placed like the target at right angles to the line of fire and under the most favorable conditions for the shell. I wish to state, without going into details, which we do not wish to be made public, that it showed that the contention of the Department as to the power of the armor-plating shell to destroy an up-to-date ship at battle range was exploded by this test.

That the other navies of the world have a torpedo shell already developed, was the reason given by Representative Hobson for the adoption of the amendment in question. The torpedo shell gives a ship great power because it can be sent farther and with more disastrous effect than the armor-plating shell. The experiment on the "Empress of India," where that armored ship was sunk at a distance where the armor-plating shell could not penetrate, was an indication of the utility of the torpedo shell.

The United States navy is now engaged in developing a torpedo shell which was described by Mr. Hobson as being able to make the water when it hits at long range and go off underneath the water. It is calculated that the explosion of such a shell underneath the water within thirty or forty feet of the ship would sink the ship.

PRUNING THE NAVY BILL

Increase of the number of chaplains in the navy to bring the chaplains' corps up to the ratio of one to every 1200 of the personnel of the navy and the Marine Corps, as recommended by the Secretary of the Navy, may be postponed until the next session of Congress. When the provision of the naval appropriation bill providing for the increase was reached in the House of Representatives, Martin B. Madden of Illinois made a point of order against it and it was stricken out.

The House spent the entire day on the naval bill, and it probably will not be completed until next week. The proposed increase of the navy, including the battleship construction, has not yet been voted on. An item in the bill increasing the limit of cost of the dry-dock at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, to $1,986,500 went out on a point of order made by Representative Walter L. Hensley of Missouri, a "little navy" man.

JAMES WORKS FOR GARRARD

Senator Ollie James of Kentucky is disposed to make trouble about the proposed retirement of Colonel Joseph Garrard, Fifteenth Cavalry, lately on duty at Fort Bliss, Texas, and commanding officer at Fort Myer, Virginia during the Taft Administration. The President recommended him for retiring to pass favorably on the application of an enlisted man for appointment as a commissioned officer because the candidate was a Hebrew and son of the post father, Colonel Garrard is within a year of the age of sixty-four, when he would be retired. He comes within the age limit permitting the President to retire him, and yesterday such action was taken "by order of the President," although in that case, as in most instances, the President did not see the order before it was issued and did not know it was in contemplation.

Another case of retirement of an officer's application influenced from Washington is that of General R. D. Potts. The vacancy occurring in the grade by virtue of this retirement will be filled by Colonel George Bell, Jr., Sixteenth Infantry, one of the Junior colonels of that arm, standing No. 32 on the list of forty-six.

BOSTON NAVY YARD TO GET $148,000

The reappropriation of $148,000 for the Charlestown Navy Yard to equip it for construction of the supply ship virtually was assured yesterday when the House in Committee of the Whole approved that section of the Naval Appropriation bill. Action had been held up on technical grounds, but the paragraph went through without division. The appropriation is expected to go through the House on the final vote without opposition.

Rivalry between the Government yards, however, resulted in the loss of $200,000 to Philadelphia to equip that yard for the construction of a transport, and the loss of $450,000 to the Norfolk yard. Representative Logan of Pennsylvania raised the point of order against the Norfolk appropriation and Representative Jones of Virginia raised the same point against Philadelphia. Each asserted that such appropriations were in the nature of "new legislation," the same point that had been urged against the Charlestown item. Both Mr. Jones and Mr. Logan contended that the point was well taken in those cases, but in the case of Charlestown it was decided that the item was simply the reappropriation of money already provided for that yard, although for other purposes.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Cogan of Wint-throp, Mass., were the weekend guests of relatives in this city.

REUNION AT NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE

New Hampshire College, Durham N. H., May 3.—The alumni of New Hampshire College had their annual reunion here today with banquet last night.

The graduates began to arrive early in the morning and a large number attended the ball game in the afternoon between New Hampshire and Worcester Polytechnic Institute. Several of the older graduates were guests of Dean C. H. Pelletier.

The banquet was served in the college gymnasium at 7 o'clock with W. F. Farrington, of Concord, Class of 1900, and president of the Alumni Association, as toastmaster. The first speaker was F. W. Howe, of the class of 1891, who discussed scientific farming. Mr. Howe is scientific director of the Walker Gordon farms and laboratories and is a professor of chemistry at the Framingham Normal School. Harvey L. Boutwell, class of 1882, Malden, one of the alumni trustees, spoke on the college man in business life. The next speaker was Miss Caroline C. Swanson, of the class of 1905, whose subject was college women in social work. Miss Swanson is superintendent of the Franklin Square House at Boston. A. L. Sullivan, of the class of 1902, spoke on opportunities in government work. Mr. Sullivan is superintendent of the U. S. pure food and drug laboratory at Boston. The last speaker was President E. T. Fairchild who pointed out the present progress of the institution its needs and prospects for the future, and discussed the relation of the alumni to the college.

At the conclusion of the banquet there was an informal reunion and dance.

There were about 150 members of the Alumni Association and the college faculty present. Music was furnished by the college orchestra and the girls students acted as waitresses.

The visitors were entertained at the homes of members of the faculty or at the several college fraternity houses.

ENGLISH BUNTING FOR NAVY FLAGS

Efforts to prevent the Navy Department purchasing its bunting for American flags from English manufacturers are being made by Representative Rogers of Massachusetts, who has taken up the question directly with Secretary Daniels. Bids for a year's supply have been obtained and two English concerns have given lower figures than the two American companies which manufacture the material. Mr. Rogers' letter to Secretary Daniels concluded: "I, therefore, hope that in the exercise of your discretion it may be possible for you to continue the practice of half a century in having the bunting for the navy made in America." The contract amounts to about $10,000 a year. Both the American factories are situated in Mr. Rogers' district.

MEANS A 'GETTING TOGETHER'

Idea of Father-and-Son Dinners Undoubtedly Good and Need Not Sleep at That.

A dispatch from Cleveland, the proud originator of the father-and-son movement, states that mayors of more than a hundred cities have heartily endorsed the idea of closer mental and moral union between dad and his boy, and have even issued eloquent proclamations on the subject. Dinners are planned in these and other cities, and we doubt not, a good deal of digging is going on in libraries and quotation books.

Mayor Nye of Minneapolis in his proclamation made a palpable hit in a phrase that like a historic shot will be heard all over the world. "Home," he said, "should be more than a place in which to sleep and eat." Who will not heartily endorse this—adding, however, that "home" would not have the meaning and sound it has if it had been nothing more than a place for sleeping and eating? With or without mayoral proclamations and endorsements, the home will thrive for some centuries yet, and it is to be hoped that fathers and sons will not wait for public dinners to "draw closer together." Every family meal affords an opportunity for cementing the ties and promoting understanding in the home. After dinner smoking or reading, walks and amusements, civic and other movements also provide such opportunities.

Success to the father-and-son dinners, private and public!—Chicago Record-Herald.

FOUND THE MEANEST MAN

Little Doubt That Turk's Bequest Was Bestowed as He Intended It Should Be.

A Turkish story runs that, dying, a pious man bequeathed a fortune to his son, charging him to give $500 to the meanest man he could find, and $500 to the most foolish.

The most foolish man is another story; as to the meanest, accounts agreed that a certain cad filled the bill. Accordingly the dutiful son offered him $500.

"But I can't take your $500," said the cad. "I never know your father; there was no reason why he should leave me money."

"It's yours all right," persisted the mourning youth.

"I might take it in a felonious transaction," said the cad, relenting. "Suppose—I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll sell you all that snow in the courtyard for $500."

The young man agreed, willing to be quit of his trust on any terms. Next day he was arrested, taken before the cad, and ordered to remove his snow at once. Being unable to comply he was fined $100 for contumacy.

"At least," he said, ruefully, as he left the court, "father's $500 went to the right man."—New York World.

Rubber-Plated Battleships.

The Globe is informed that a new invention in regard to armor-plating is being tested unofficially by the admiralty. The principle of the invention consists of sandwiching rubber in between layers of Harvey steel in place of the solid steel slabs used at present.

The matter is being kept secret, no names or places being given, but it is claimed by the inventor that the thick wall of rubber would tend to act towards a shell much in the same way as a sandbag does to a bullet, only, if anything, more efficiently, on account of the buffer-like consistency of the rubber.

The new armor plate would be especially adaptable to dreadnoughts, and the total thickness on and below the turrets would be about eighteen inches to twenty inches.

Famous British Soldier.

One hundred years ago March 8 a British army under Gen. Sir Thomas Graham attempted to take by storm Bergen-op-Zoom, a strongly-fortified place in Holland. After forcing an entrance to the fortress the British had their retreat cut off, and nearly all were cut to pieces or taken prisoners. For the bravery he displayed in action Gen. Sir Thomas Graham was raised to the British peerage under the title of Baron Lynedoch. He was one of the celebrated British commanders in the Napoleonic wars and was in command of a wing of the British army at the great battle of Vittoria. He lived to the advanced age of ninety-three years, his death occurring in 1843.

Arab in the Occident.

An Arab who visited New York city is said to have sent this letter home: "People in America travel like rats under the ground (meaning the subway), and like squirrels in the air (meaning the elevated railways), and the buildings are so high that people have to be put in square boxes and pulled to the top by heavy ropes (meaning the elevator). In the day the sun furnishes the light the same as in Morocco. At night the light is as strong as the day, but people here do not seem to have much use for sleep, as the streets are just as crowded at night as in the day."—Outlook.

BOYS MAKING LONG WALK

Will Travel Around the Borders of the United States.

To walk around the border of the United States in three and one-half years is the task that four New York young men have taken upon themselves. They arrived in Boston at the end of the first leg of the trip early Saturday morning.

Call on Officials

These young pedestrians started from New York City Hall on April 15 and went to Yonkers N. Y., north through the state into Connecticut. There they were received by the Mayor of Bridgeport. They also stopped at New Haven and New London, spending a day in each of the cities obtaining signatures. Passing into Rhode Island they stopped at Westerly for a day, then at Providence. At the latter city they obtained the signatures of Governor Pothier and Mayor Gainer.

They will stop in Boston until Monday when they will again start out for Portsmouth, N. H. They have already obtained the signature of Mayor Curley and also a letter from Governor Walsh.

The route that the boys intend to follow is north to Portland, Me., along the Canadian border line to the Pacific coast, then to San Francisco, thence to New York City through the southwestern and northern parts of the country. The entire distance to be covered is about 14,000 miles. There are no special conditions that they will have to live up to the purpose being to get material to write a book of the life on the road and also to make out a good road map.

Their dress is of the typical road style consisting of small stocking caps, red sweaters with the initials "N. Y." khaki pants and leggings. They each carry a haversack that weighs about 20 pounds which contains clothes, socks, shoes, underwear and some postal that they intend to sell. They are from 20 to 24 years old and are very sturdy in build.

START THE GOOD WORK TODAY

Soap, Paint and Elbow Grease Can Work Wonders In Our City.

Clean-up and paint-up week, which originated in St. Louis, has taken New England by storm and in nearly every city in New Hampshire there is an organized effort to clean up and make the places attractive. While no such steps have been taken in this city, there is a well defined movement on the part of the citizens to have a general clean-up and good will result from the same. News of the activity shown by New Englanders has traveled back west, as an object lesson to the sponsors. At the end of the week this community should rival nature's vernal offerings with an unprecedented spick-and-spanness.

The actual work, however, lies ahead. Thus far all the energy has been justifiably expended in talk, in securing publicity, in propagating the fundamentals of effective cleaning up, municipally and in the home. To how great an extent these verbal and literary outpourings will be translated into action the next few days will show.

The "clean-up and paint-up" idea has spread so extensively because entirely sound in principle and commendable in purpose. The first week in May is, of all times of the year, the most appropriate. It follows April's washing away of the accumulations of winter. It coincides with the moving season and its inevitable "pickling-up." It precedes the unhealthful growth of germs and plant life of the hotter days. It is a strategic period in which the most effective campaign against dirt can be waged with a minimum effort. The "clean-up" which the movement incorporates is an essential to its success. Let everyone do his share!

EQUAL SUFFRAGE RALLY DAY

Advocates of the Cause Listen to Noted Speakers From Abroad.

The Portsmouth Equal Suffrage League royally observed the National Suffrage Day on Saturday evening with a big rally on Market square at 7.30 o'clock.

Miss Sallie W. Hovey, president of the local league, presided, and introduced Rev. Henry C. Ives of Andover and Rev. Lytle L. Galtner of this city, both of whom addressed the assembly with brief but powerful and appealing remarks.

The Portsmouth City Band played stirring music and suffrage songs were sung by members of the league as well as the party assembled.

The suffragettes then adjourned to Association hall where the vice president, Mrs. Mary I. Wood, presided, and introduced the following speakers:

Mrs. Frank L. Benedict, Miss Martha S. Kimball, Dr. Benjamin C. Woodbury of Portsmouth, Rev. Henry C. Ives of Andover, and Mrs. Rudolph Blankenburg of Chicago. Mrs. Blankenburg is the wife of the mayor of Philadelphia, and one of the officers in the General Federation of Women's Clubs.
